

The palace was her cage. The desert became her kingdom. When darkness begins erasing the lands beyond the golden walls, sixteen-year-old Princess Aisha slips past her father's guards and steps into a destiny of forbidden magic, impossible bargains, and a love that defies every curse ever cast. Guided by a sarcastic white panther, a witty rescued snake, and a djinn hiding a devastating secret, she crosses a bridge of light into a world her father always feared she would find.

From a silent city stripped of its voices to a mirage palace built entirely of lies, from an Oracle who takes memories as her toll to a monster whose darkness was born from heartbreak, Aisha must choose between safety and sacrifice — and discover that the most powerful magic was never in the sand at all.

An epic saga for the whole family — where breathtaking worlds, unexpected twists, and ancient magic come alive in a story about the courage to forgive, the strength to let go, and the love that no darkness can ever erase.